

The French in North America Before 1763

This crossword puzzle uses words and names associated with the period until 1763 when the French laid claim to a large part of the North American continent, calling their colony "New France." The puzzle can be used as a "bell-ringer activity" in U.S. history class, perhaps in connection with National French Week at the beginning of November.

French Language Initiative: French Language Advocacy Kit